

FEET FIRST

Penguins are birds. They have wings but they do not fly! They use their wings to swim. A penguin's wings are called flippers. Penguins spend a lot of time in the water looking for fish to eat. They have long beaks that they use for catching fish. Most penguins dive into the water. The rockhopper penguin likes to go in feet first!

Most penguins have black and white feathers. Their feathers keep them warm. A penguin's back is black and its front is white. They have very short legs and their feet have sharp claws. They walk slowly but they can slide along the ice on their fronts.

The biggest penguin is called the emperor penguin. It lives in a very cold place called the Antarctic. The emperor penguin is about a metre tall. It can stay under the water for about 20 minutes.

King penguins are the second biggest type of penguin. They live in the Antarctic too. They have four coats of feathers to keep them warm!

The smallest penguin is called the fairy penguin. This penguin is about half a metre tall. It is found in Australia and New Zealand. Fairy penguins are dark blue in colour with pink feet and black beaks. Just like the other penguins, fairy penguins are great swimmers but they do not fly.
